

PRIVACY POLICY

Updated September 25, 2024

1. Parties and object

Sophiesticated (hereinafter "BRAVE" or the "Controller")

CBE/BTW: _____

E-Mail: lionelofficial115@gmail.com

Phone: _____

BRAVE establishes this Privacy Policy, the purpose of which is to transparently inform Users about the website hosted at the following address: www.braveofficial.com, (hereinafter the "Site"), and how personal data are collected and processed by BRAVE.

The term "User" refers to any user, whether natural or legal, who visits or interacts in any way with the Site.

In its capacity as data controller, BRAVE determines all the technical, legal and organizational means and purposes for processing the Users' personal data. BRAVE undertakes to take all necessary measures to ensure that the processing of personal data is carried out in accordance with the Law of July 30, 2018 on the protection of natural persons with regard to the processing of personal data (hereinafter the "Law") and the Regulation (EU) 2016/679 of the European Parliament and of the Council of April 27, 2016 on the protection of natural persons with regard to the processing of personal data and on the free movement of such data and repealing Directive 95/46/EC (i.e. the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) or "GDPR"; hereinafter the "Regulation").

BRAVE is free to choose a natural or legal person who processes the users' personal data at its request and on its behalf (hereinafter the "Processor" or "Subcontractor"). Where appropriate, BRAVE undertakes to select a Processor that provides sufficient guarantees regarding the technical and organizational measures for processing personal data, in accordance with the Law and the Regulation.

2. Processing of personal data

Users' use of the Site may result in the collection of personal data. The processing of this data by BRAVE, in its capacity as Controller or by service providers acting in the name and on behalf of BRAVE, is done in accordance with the Law and the Regulation.

Personal data is processed by BRAVE, in accordance with the purposes listed below, through the following methods:

processing for contacting customer

3. Purpose of processing personal data

In accordance with Article 13 of the Regulation, the purposes of processing personal data are communicated to the User. Those purposes are as follows:

processing for contacting customer

4. Personal data that may be processed

The User agrees that, during the visit and use of the Site, BRAVE collects and processes the following personal data:

e-mail address, phone number

BRAVE collects and processes this personal data in accordance with the terms and principles described in this Privacy Policy.

5. Permission

By accessing and using the Site, the User declares that he/she has read and given his/her free, specific, informed and unambiguous consent to the processing of his/her personal data. This agreement covers the contents of this Privacy Policy.

Consent is given by the positive and active act by which the User has checked the box for the privacy policy in 'hypertext link'. This consent is an essential condition for performing certain actions on the Site or for enabling the User to enter into a contractual relationship with BRAVE. Any agreement binding BRAVE and a User regarding the services and goods offered on the Site is subject to the User's acceptance of the Privacy Policy.

The User agrees that the Controller, in accordance with the terms and principles set forth in this Privacy Policy, collects and processes his/her personal data that he/she provides on the Site or in connection with the services offered by BRAVE, for the purposes set forth above.

The User has the right to withdraw this consent at any time. The withdrawal of consent does not affect the lawfulness of the processing based on the prior consent.

6. Retention period of the Users' personal data

In accordance with Article 13(2) of the Regulation, the Controller shall retain personal data only for as long as is reasonably necessary to achieve the purposes for which they are processed.

This duration will not exceed 6 months in all cases.

7. Data recipients and disclosure to third parties

Personal data may be transmitted to employees, employees, subcontractors, processors or suppliers of BRAVE insofar as adequate guarantees are provided for data security and insofar as they cooperate with BRAVE for marketing the products or providing services. They act under the direct authority of BRAVE, and in particular are responsible for collecting, processing or outsourcing this data.

In all cases, the recipients of the data and those to whom the data is provided comply with the contents of this Privacy Policy. BRAVE ensures that they process this data only for the intended purposes and in a discreet and secure manner.

In the event that the data would be provided to third parties for purposes of direct marketing or prospecting, the User will be informed in advance so that he or she can give prior and express consent to this use of personal data.

8. Rights of Users

The User may exercise his rights at any time by sending a message by e-mail to the following address: lioneldofficial115@gmail.com, or a letter by mail, accompanied by a copy of his or her identification card to the following address:

_____.

a. Right of access

In accordance with Article 15 of the Regulation, BRAVE guarantees the User's right to access his personal data. The User has the right to access this personal data and the following information:

- the categories of personal data involved;
- The recipients or categories of recipients to whom the personal data have been or will be disclosed;
- in case the recipients are located in third countries or are international organizations, the appropriate or suitable safeguards;
- if possible, the proposed storage period for personal data or, if not possible, the criteria by which this period is determined;
- the existence of automated decision-making, including profiling, as referred to in Article 22(1) and (4) of the Regulation and, at least in such cases, relevant information on the underlying logic, as well as the significance and expected consequences of such processing for the data subject.

The Controller may claim a reasonable fee based on the administrative costs for additional copies requested by the User.

If the User submits this request electronically (e.g., via email address), the data will be provided in electronic form and for general use, unless the User requests otherwise.

The copy of the data will be communicated to the User no later than one month after receipt of the request.

b. Right of rectification

BRAVE guarantees the right to rectification and deletion of personal data to the User.

In accordance with Article 16 of the Regulation, incorrect, inaccurate or irrelevant data may be corrected or deleted at any time. The User first makes the necessary changes himself from his user account, unless they cannot be made independently, in which case the request can be addressed to BRAVE.

In accordance with Article 19 of the Regulation, the controller shall notify any recipient to whom the personal data have been disclosed of any rectification of the personal data, unless such rectification proves impossible or involves disproportionate efforts. The controller shall provide the data subject with information about these recipients if the data subject so requests.

c. Right of erasure

The User has the right, in the cases mentioned in Article 17 of the Regulation, to obtain the deletion of his personal data as soon as possible.

Where the Controller has disclosed the personal data and is required to erase it pursuant to the preceding paragraph, the Controller, taking into account available technologies and implementation costs, shall take reasonable measures, including technical measures, to notify other controllers processing such personal data that the data subject has been requested by such controllers to erase the connection with such personal data or a copy or reproduction thereof.

The two preceding paragraphs shall not apply to the extent that such processing is necessary:

- the exercise of the right to freedom of expression and information;
- to comply with a legal obligation to process under Union law or the law of the Member State to which the controller belongs, or to carry out a task carried out in the public interest or in the exercise of official authority vested in the controller;
- the determination, exercise or defense of legal claims.

In accordance with Article 19 of the Regulation, the controller shall notify any recipient to whom the personal data have been disclosed of any erasure of personal data or any restriction of their processing, unless such disclosure proves impossible or involves a disproportionate effort. The controller shall provide the data subject with information about these recipients if the data subject so requests.

d. Right to restrict processing

The User has the right to have the processing of his personal data restricted in the cases specified in Article 18 of the Regulation.

In accordance with Article 19 of the Regulation, the controller shall notify any recipient to whom the personal data have been disclosed of any restriction on the processing carried out, unless such disclosure proves impossible or involves a disproportionate effort. The controller shall provide the data subject with information about these recipients if the data subject so requests.

e. Right to data portability

In accordance with Article 20 of the Regulation, Users have the right to receive from BRAVE their personal data in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format. Users have the right to transfer this data to another data controller without preventing BRAVE from doing so, in the cases provided for in the Regulation.

When the User exercises his right to data portability under the previous paragraph, he has the right to have personal data transferred directly from one controller to another, insofar as this is technically possible.

The exercise of the right to data portability does not affect the right to erasure. This right does not apply to processing necessary for the performance of a task carried out in the public interest or in the exercise of official authority vested in the controller.

The right to data portability does not affect the rights and freedoms of third parties.

f. Right to object and automated individual decision-making

The User has at all times the right to object to the processing of his/her personal data due to his/her specific situation, including the automation of data by BRAVE. In accordance with Article 21 of the Regulation, BRAVE will no longer process personal data unless there are legitimate and compelling reasons for the processing that override the interests and rights and freedoms of the User, or for the establishment, exercise or defense of legal rights.

When processing personal data for prospecting purposes, the User has the right to object at any time to the processing of personal data concerning him/her for such prospecting purposes, including profiling insofar as it relates to such prospecting.

Where the data subject objects to processing for prospecting purposes, personal data will no longer be processed for that purpose.

g. Complaint Law

The User has the right to lodge a complaint regarding the processing of his personal data by BRAVE, to the Data Protection Authority competent for the Belgian territory. More information can be found on the website: <https://www.gegevensbeschermingsautoriteit.be/>.

Complaints can be filed at the following addresses: Data

Protection Authority
Press Street 35, 1000 Brussels
Tel. + 32 2 274 48 00
Fax. + 32 2 274 48 35
E-mail: contact@apd-gba.be

The User may also file an action for cessation with the president of the court of first instance of his residence.

9. Limitation of the Controller's liability

The website may contain links to other third-party websites that are not linked to BRAVE. The content of these sites and compliance with the Regulation and the Law are not the responsibility of BRAVE.

The holder of parental authority must give his or her express consent to the minor under 16 years of age to disclose any personal information or data through the Site. BRAVE strongly encourages persons exercising parental authority over minors to promote responsible and safe use of the Internet. The Controller cannot be held liable for the collection and processing of personal information and data of minors under 16 years of age whose consent is not effectively covered by that of their legal parents, nor for inaccurate data - especially regarding age - entered by minors. Under no circumstances will personal data be processed by the Controller if the user indicates that he/she is under 16 years of age.

BRAVE is not responsible for loss, damage or theft of personal data, especially due to the presence of viruses or following computer attacks.

10. Safety and security

The Controller shall implement technical and organizational measures to ensure an appropriate level of security for the processing and collection of data. These security measures depend on the implementation costs related to the nature, context and purposes of the processing of personal data.

The Controller uses standard encryption technologies within the IT industry when transmitting or collecting data on the Site.

11. Modification of Privacy Policy

BRAVE reserves the right to modify this Privacy Policy to comply with legal obligations in this regard. The User is therefore requested to consult the Privacy Policy regularly to be informed of any changes and modifications. Such changes will be posted on the Site or sent by email to ensure objectionability.

12. Applicable law and competent court

This Privacy Policy is governed exclusively by Belgian law. Any dispute shall be submitted to the courts of the judicial district of the registered office of BRAVE.

13. Contact

For any question or complaint regarding this privacy policy, the User may contact the Controller at the following address: lionelofficial115@gmail.com.
